Temperance.

To the Public:

The article by our genial neighbor Jones in the News of Feb. 11th, under the above caption, is hardly true to its title. While appearing to admit that temperance is a virtue, the writer evidently means to give an underhand stab to the holy cause of temperance and prohibition. And yet he is so indefinite and insinuating in his treatment of the subject that his exact position is not easy for a stranger to see. His piece is somewhat like the celebrated fifteenth and sixteenth chapters of Gibbon "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire" in one respect. In those chapters Gibbon makes a covert, insinuating, sneaking attack on Christianity, while at the opening he seems to admit its divine origin. In all the elaborate discussions, and stately sentences of those chapters he never once reveals directly his position on Christianity. So it is with Bro. Jones. But we who know him have not the slightest difficulty in understanding his position and the animus of his piece. As he fights somewhat in the dark and among the bushes it is not so easy a task to reply as it would be if he had fought squarely in the open. But I will select a few points where he seems to show his hand in fighting Prohibition. In his second sentence he makes his first fling at our cause. "We speak of the same standpoint from which X X views the subject and the Pharisaic manner in which it is often discussed". I presume that from Dr. Jones' view point any one who advocates total abstinence from strong drink, and the prohibition of manufacture and sale of same for beverage purposes is guilty of discussing the subject in a Pharisaic manner. To discuss it in a sane way is to say that whiskey is a good thing to use, provided you do not make a habit of getting beastly drunk, that it is a medicine good for all the physical ills of humanity, and that everybody should be allowed to make and sell it who desires so to do. The sainted men and women like John B. Gough, Clinton B. Fisk, Henry Grady, T. S. Arthur, Hale Johnson, J. B. Finch, Frances E. Willard, Clara C. Hoffman, J. A. Brooks and others who spoke and wrote and sacrificed in behalf of total abstinence and Prohibition were all hypocritical pharisees according to the Doctor's view of the case. Daniel was a chief of the Pharisees and the Rechabites a tribe of Pharisees. (see Jer. 35th chapter.) The prophet Habakkuk must have been treating the subject in a Pharisaic manner when he said "Woe unto him that giveth his neighbor drink: that putteth thy bottle to him and maketh him drunken" (Hab. 2:15) The Bible doctrine of temperance, the common sense doctrine, the scientific doctrine, is total abstinence from all that is harmful and moderation in the use of that which is good.

The Doctor gives us a long disquisition on the old way of making the stuff, on the taxation of the same, and on the, then and the now, of liquor drinking and its results. He claims that liquor drinking causes four-fold more evil according to the amount consumed now, than it did then. Well, my understanding is that whisky and brandy, even in their purity, would always make people drunk and cause trouble, and even the Doctor himself admits that in the good old days of his youth they caused fights. Now if the quality of liquor is so much worse at present than it used to be, why not stop the making of it altogether? That is certainly a good argument for Prohibition. But he says the liquor of the good old days contained more songs than fights. Well, are we to conclude that he has kept in store all these long years a supply of the inspiring beverage of old, and that to it we are to ascribe the poetic effusions from his pen that have appeared from time to time in the News? It is said that Poe's poem the "Raven" was inspired by the juice of corn and that the raven which perched above his chamber door was delirium tremens, "simply this and nothing more."

Bro Jones claims that when a dozen distilleries were being operated in Russell county, and mint julep was served out in washing tubs on election day without money and without price, that all the evil results were a little extra enthusiasm on the part of a few, a political fisticuff or two, and a number of old toppers somewhat soaked on public days. This seems to me to be quite a large fish story, but as he has proved part of it by John Smith, I will not call for proof on the rest of it. But if this all be true, what bearing does it have on the merits of the question today? Put a dozen distilleries into operation in Russell county now, and serve the sweetened mint julep in tubs and tin cups free of charge, and put the liquor at every public gathering and what would be the result?

Everybody knows. So that is not the thing to do. Present conditions are bad. I understand that perhaps forty men were drunk at Jamestown last Monday. What is the remedy? Stop the manufacture. That has never been done yet. And the temperance question will never be settled till it is done.

Just here I wish to note another point. The present generation is now reaping the harvest that was sown in the good old days of which the Doctor makes so much. The men who drank their morning dram, who drank freely at elections, at log rolling, at corn huskings, at house raisings, and on all public occasions, became the fathers of a generation of natural drunkards, by acquiring an appetite and transmitting it to their children. Inherited thirst for strong drink is now so prevalent that the prohibition of the manufacture and sale is a necessity for securing peace and good order. I knew a preacher in Texas who told me that he had a natural craving for strong drink, and he had once been silenced from preaching because he had yielded to this craving. He was simply a victim of inherited appetite and deserved pity.

Various reports of a criticising nature have spread over this section concerning the use of ensilage, due to the fact that Mr. W. T. Dohoney lost eleven head of horses that had been fed from his silo. So far as we have been able to learn the analysis of the ensilage showed ptomaine poison. This may occur in feed that has never been put in a silo and reports from various parts of the State show that many horses have died under similar circumstances on dry feed. Again it is reported that cattle also have died in this county from eating ensilage. This report is unfounded. There are only seven silos in the county and not a single case of any cattle being affected, but to the reverse every one is taking on flesh and doing fine. Those who do not want a silo do not have to buy one. Those who are using them are well pleased.

Seven shows in Columbia last week, four at the court house and three at the Parlor Circle.

The Village Post Office.

The above named play was pulled off at the court-house last Wednesday night, under the management of the ladies of the Eastern Star Chapter, this place. The court room was filled to its capacity, many having to stand in order to witness the play. There were more than thirty characters, all home talent, and some very fine acting was put on. In fact, the rendering of this play proved, beyond question, that there is much talent in Columbia. If there was a mistake made during the entire evening, it was not discovered by the audience, hence all who took part have a right to feel satisfied with their efforts.

There were a number before the foot lights, who deserve special mention, as their acting and singing would have done credit to performers who have long been on the road. Henry Hancock, representing an old colored man, was in a class to himself, and the colored quartette, the impersonators being Lee Grissom, J. E. Flowers, Elva Jones and Audrey Wilson, brought down the house. Mrs. John Sandusky, Misses Mabel Atkins, Edna Lewis, Nettie Clark, Mary Garnett, Alva Knight, Messrs. Jo Harris, Rex Holladay, Clay Smith, Luther Gashberry, Count Stuits Smith Gill and Ed Diddle played their parts to perfection, and Leon Lewis, Ed Willis, Harry Sims, Geo. Hancock and Miss Dora Eubank were on their parts, acting faultlessly. Albia Eubank, Guy Stevenson and Tom Patteson kept the audience in an uproar, and James Arvin and Mrs. Geo. E. Wilson made most efficient postmasters.

Miss Pearl Nave, drilled the performers and she deserves great credit for the satisfactory manner in which the play was rendered.

Those who were not present can draw an estimate of the number who were present by the receipts of the evening, $55.00; the admission fees being 10 and 15 cents.

Ex-Officio.

I have always thought that the officials of a community were clothed with power to enforce the law and keep the peace, and that the law applied to all men and not a few. I just thought this, but I might have thought wrong. It doesn't take field glasses to see that some fellows are allowed all the rope that binds others tight. When a man gets drunk and howls like a hyena, takes the whole width of the sidewalk, and puts him self on dress parade in that condition, does he need to be dealt with? Why make country men and boys walk the chalk mark when they come to town, when most of these town fellows are not molested when they do wrong? From testimony introduced before the court, I supposed that the "eider shack" as they call it, was responsible for all the drunkenness in this town, but since it has closed out, I have noticed that there is about as much, if not more drinking now than there was then. There must be something wrong somewhere. Men get intoxicated on whisky, and it must be the "empty suit case" brigade that caused it—what I mean by this is when fellows leave here with suit cases with not a thing on earth in them. any body who can comprehend knows they come back full.

What I say will not amount to a continental any way, but I say it just the same.

Fred McLean.

Notice to Trustees

Dr. Frank J. Cheek, of Danville, Ky., State Synodical Evangelist of the Presbyterian Church, will preach at the Presbyterian church here, the second Sunday in March—morning and evening.

Palmer & LaRue Musical Comedy Company with a cast of ten people, were at the court-house three nights of last week. It was very well patronized.

Circuit Court at Liberty.

The Casey Circuit Court will convene next Monday. The docket is heavier than usual. Judge Carter completed the November term in just three days. The grand jury returned 84 indictments in that short period. Our speedometer got out of order and we didn't know how fast we were going until we run out. Circuit Court is an attracting happening in the Casey county capital three times a year. The people all come to town. This is thirteenth trip the writer has made to Liberty since March, 1910, and he will be a little "skeered" this time. Mr. Walter Goff, Dr. L. E. Jones, Mr. Jno. D. Lowe and Mr. G. L. Perryman, of this town and county, will be in attendance at Liberty next Monday. Fred McLean.

(FIRST DAVIS LETTER.)

Oakford, Ill., Feb. 17, 1914.

Editor News:

Jefferson Davis, the soldier, statesman, and President of the Confederate States of America, was born in Christian county, Ky., on June 3, 1808, just the year before the birth of Lincoln.

When the boy was less than ten years of age, his father moved to Mississippi and thus early in life was formed a connection with his adopted State, which became in after years a source of pride to both.

He returned to Transylvania University, in his native state, for his education, and in 1834 entered the Military School at West Point, where Robert E. Lee was his classmate. He graduated in 1828, with usual brevet of Second Lieutenant of Infantry. He at once entered active service, on the North-Western frontier, where he served seven years and was promoted to First Lieutenant.

Even thus early in life, his vigorous mind had decided on the question of States Rights, for in 1833, when it was believed that the Government troops would be called upon to enforce certain acts of Congress in South Carolina, which that State nullified, Jefferson Davis was prepared to resign his Commission rather than be obliged to take a part in the Coercion of a state of the Union.

During the Black Hawk war Davis and Lincoln met each other, and had some acquaintance.

In 1835 Mr. Davis was married to daughter of Gen. Zachary Taylor, she died September 13, a few months after their union. In the same year Mr. Davis resigned his Commission and retired to a Mississippi plantation.

When the Mexican war broke out, Col. Davis at the head of the First Regiment of Mississippi volunteers, marched to the Rio Grande and joined the army before Monterey, and fought at Buena Vista, receiving there a wound that placed him upon crutches, and the effect of which he felt for five years after.

Colonel Davis and his riflemen turned the tide of war by their bravery in this battle.

The political career of Mr. Davis commenced in 1843, when he first participated in local affairs, and in 1845 he was elected to the United States House of Representatives.

He was elected to the United States Senate 1847, and took his seat in the first session. Here he came into close companionship with John C. Calhoun, and other distinguished men of the country.

Don't you Believe It.

Some say that chronic constipation cannot be cured. Don't you believe it Chamberlain's Tablet has cured others—why not you? Give them a trial. They cost only a quarter. For sale by Paul Drug Co. Ad.

On Feb. 26, 1845, Mr. Davis was married to the daughter of W. B. Howell, of Natchez, Miss., and granddaughter of Gov. Howell, of New Jersey. Mrs. Davis survived her husband, has written an exceedingly interesting history of his life.

In March, he was appointed Secretary of War in the Cabinet of President Pierce. While in this position he urged that the United States Army should in time of peace prepare for war, and was instrumental in placing it upon a stronger footing.

In 1857 he re-entered the United States Senate, and many of the most exciting events in the history of our country occurred during the ensuing years. They were the shadows of the coming war. The Guerrilla skirmishing on the plains of Kansas, arising from the attempt to force slavery into that territory; the disunion coming from the Democrats upon the question of Squatter Sovereignty; and the discussion of States Rights.

In 1860 Mr. Davis offered in the United States Senate a series of resolutions which were adopted, to the effect that "the states had formally accepted the Constitution as independent Sovereigns, delegating to the General Government a portion of their power for the sake of security, that the intermeddling of the part of any one of them with the domestic institutions of another was not only insulting, but dangerous to the domestic peace, and tending to destroy the Union; that Negro Slavery was legal, and that neither Congress nor Territorial Legislature had the right to interfere with it."

Lincoln was elected President of the United States at the November election, 1860, and immediately the South began to prepare for the war which was soon to follow. The excitement was very high in the South on receiving the news of Lincoln's election. One said "the die is cast, no more vain regrets, sad forboding are useless, the stake is life or death."

Just a few days after Lincoln's election, the citizens of the low lands of South Carolina sent messengers to Columbia to hasten the action of the wisdom at the Capitol. Their message was "go ahead and dissolve the Union, and be done with it, or it will be worse for you. The fire in the rear is hottest."

About the 10th of December, Edward J. Pringle wrote from California, expressing the hope that "the black Republicans would take the alarm and submit some treaty of peace, that would enable the South then and forever to settle the question, and save their generation from a prostration of business and decay of prosperity that should inevitably come to both the North and the South from a disruption of the Union."

South Carolina passed the Secession Ordinance, December 20, 1860, declaring that the Union was dissolved. This act was received with rejoicing mixed with excitement and fear.

On January 9, 1861, Mississippi seceded from the Union, and on the 21 Mr. Davis, devoted to the doctrines of States Rights, withdrew from the United States Senate with a speech, in which he strongly set forth his principles, and to which an immense throng of people listened with breathless attention. He fully justified the course of Mississippi as a conviction of pressing necessity, if we are to be deprived in the Union of the rights which our fathers bequeathed to us.

In a conversation with Hon. James Campbell, Ex-Postmaster General of the United States, Mr. Davis said "Campbell I love this old Union. My father bled for it and I have fought for it, but unless you were in the South and knew our people you could not begin to estimate the bitterness of feeling already engendered there, and which will increase if Lincoln is elected."

The Confederacy composed of the States of N. C., Miss., Fla., Ala., Ga., La., and Tex. was organized at Montgomery, Ala., February 4, 1861, and their Congress proceeded to elect a President and Vice President. Jefferson Davis and Robert Toombs were the persons voted for President. On the 9th of February the final vote was cast, which resulted in the election of Davis by a majority of a single vote. He never sought the office, but it was cast upon him and he felt it his duty to accept it.

Alexander H. Stephens was chosen Vice President at the same time. Stephens was a native of Georgia, and at the very hour that his State passed the secession ordinance, he was standing before them pleading for the preservation of the Union. He told them that they had no grievance against the United States, and that they were seeking to destroy the greatest and best government that was ever established. He told them he would never lend his consent nor his vote to the tearing down of that government that their forefathers, in a common cause, fought and bled.

The Confederate Government continued at Montgomery until its removal to Richmond in July, 1861.

On February 18, 1861, Mr. Davis assumed the Presidency of the Confederate States, and delivered his inaugural address in Montgomery, Alabama. Unques-

A Winter Cough

A stubborn, annoying, depressing cough hangs on, racks the body, weakens the lungs, and often leads to serious results. The first dose of Dr. King's New Discovery gives relief. Henry D. Sanders, of Caveadish, Va., was threatened with consumption after having pneumonia. He writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery ought to be in every family; it is certainly the best of all medicines for coughs, colds and lung trouble." Good for children coughs. Money back if not satisfied. Price 50c and $1.00. Recommended by Paul Drug Co. Ad.

tionably he was the popular choice; he did not seek the office and there was no intriguing for it.

Hostilities at once began, and battles followed which are described in our historical records, as well as Mr. Davis' "Rise and Fall of the Southern Confederacy" At the expiration of the first year of the Provisional Government a new Congress was elected, and a new inaugural was delivered, February 22, 1862.

In May, 1862, Mr. Davis was baptized by the Rt. Rev. Bishop Johns, his mind having been prepared for it for some time previous.

The effect of the Emancipation Proclamation was unmistakable. It roused the South to a determination to resist to the utmost of a power that, as they thought, respected neither the rights of property nor Constitutional Guarantees.

In July, 1863, Mr. Davis addressed a letter to President Lincoln on the subject of exchanging prisoners, but insisted upon his title as President of the Confederacy. A second time he wrote expressing his views on retaliation. He also addressed the Pope of Rome, thanking him for his sympathy.

After the surrender of Lee and Johnson, Mr. Davis started for Washington, Georgia, with the purpose of making his way to the Trans-Mississippi. A false report that his wife was in danger, led him to change his course that he might join her. He traveled with her for several days, until they reached Irwinstville (now Irwinton,) Georgia, where he was captured. Many ridiculous stories were circulated at the time of his assuming a woman's dress, etc., but as he tells the story himself, he picked up as he thought, his own "raglan" or wrap, and it proved to be his wife's and as he was ill and suffering, his wife threw a shawl over his shoulders, when he passed her.

He was taken prisoner on the 19th of May, 1865, and confined in Fortress Monroe. On May 23 orders were given to place him in irons. He begged that they would not degrade him in this way, and forcibly resisted the attempts to place the manacles upon his wrists. "Let your men shoot me at once," he cried; but the order was executed.

He earnestly desired a public trial, and feared that he would die before he could have the opportunity to refute the charge of complicity in the assassination of Lincoln.

The irons were finally removed as a medical necessity, although he was too proud to ask any favors to the last.

On April 10, 1866, the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives, at Washington, though there was no reason why they should not, at once proceeded with the trial; and on May 8, 1866, a Grand Jury of the Unit-

Creelsborian in the Sunny South.Editor News:

I promised some of my friends that I would write a letter to the paper as soon as I had time, after I got permanently located here. I have been teaching five weeks. Began January the 5th, 1914. I have a large school and am liking fairly well.

I shall only attempt to give a concise description of Georgia and its people. I believe several of the Central and Northern people have the wrong knowledge of the Southern people, therefore I shall give a short story of Georgia and its people for the benefit of those interested.

Georgia, the Empire State of the South, is the largest State East of the Mississippi. It was founded by James Edward Oglethorpe, in 1733, as a home for poor. The colony was not very prosperous at first. These people who had failed to support themselves in the old world, found it very difficult to provide for themselves in the wilderness, but more energetic immigrants soon entered the colony, and it began to prosper. It still exists as a refuge for poor and unfortunate teachers. There are quite a number of teachers from Kentucky and Tennessee here.

The State is divided by relief forms into three distinct regions, or divisions, called Southern Georgia, Middle Georgia and Northern Georgia. In Southern Georgia near the coast, the land is low and swampy, but when properly drained, it is admirably adapted to the cultivation of rice. Slightly elevated above the coast region, is a level tract of country known as the "Pine Barrens," and North of this is an undulating section covered with long-leaf pine as the characteristic growth. Middle Georgia is hilly, and the characteristic vegetation is similar to that of the hilly parts of Kentucky. Northern Georgia is noted for its fine scenery. Here, the surface is wrought into rugged and picturesque forms of the terminal ridges and detached peaks of the Appalachian highland.

The climate is very delightful. It varies from sub-tropical in the South, to temperate in the North. The rainfall is just a little greater than that of Kentucky. Snow is seldom seen except in the extreme Northern part of the State. The dry and pure atmosphere of the pine region, makes it a favorite winter resort for Northern visitors. The climate is very healthful, with the exception of a small, low region in the extreme South.

The soil of Georgia is generally fertile, and yields a generous crop when well cultivated. The farmers have been slow to give up the old methods of farming, and adopt the modern, but it seems that the time has dawned now when they will abandon those methods that scientific farmers have proved to be poor, and adopt the new.

Heretofore cotton has been the chief crop, but the farmers are now turning their attention to the production of other crops, and to stock-raising. No doubt this will prove a great blessing to the country, which is really as promising a country as we have any where in the United States. The other chief products are rice, sugar cane, fruits, potatoes, watermelons, oats, corn, peanuts, hay and syrup. There is a good deal of turpentine and rosin produced from the long leaf pine trees. The trees are hacked and boxed in the spring, and the resinous substance which exudes from the incisions is caught in the box attached to the tree. This is then collected and distilled, producing the spirits of turpentine. The residue is called rosin, and it is used in making soap, varnishes and etc. The State is also rich in mineral manufactured products, and lumber.

The population is about 55 per cent., white, and about 45 per cent., black. The main race elements of the white population are English and Scotch-Irish. There are very few immigrants in the State, and the people are more hospitable and sociable than they are in regions of more transient population. They are very energetic and enterprising, and we find by referring to history, that Georgia has produced many men who have distinguished themselves in statesmanship, in literature, and in war.

The schools of Georgia, generally, are in fairly good condition. The school system provides for instruction in the elementary branches at public expense, (though the patrons of each school district usually supplement the teacher's salary) for all the children between the ages of six and eighteen. There are separate schools for the white and colored races. The pupils, generally, take a fairly good interest in school, and are very docile. The leading patrons, who have come to realize the necessity of an education, are greatly interested, especially in the subject of agriculture, which is being extensively taught throughout the State. The teaching of this subject in the common schools has wrought a wonderful influence over the agricultural interest of the State, since the boys and girls are being taught that the farm is the best place to live.

I trust that this will serve as a letter to all my friends whom I haven't time to write personal letters to.

Elmer Dalton.

How is Your Boiler?

It has been stated that a man's stomach is his boiler, his body is his engine and his mouth the fire box. Is your boiler (stomach) in good working order? or is it so weak that it will not stand a full load and not able to supply the needed energy to your engine (body)? If you have any trouble with your stomach, Chamberlain's Tablets will do you good. They strengthen and invigorate the stomach and enable it to do its work naturally. Many very remarkable cures of stomach trouble have been effected by them. For sale by Paull Drug Co. Ad.

SNAPSHOTS OF NOTABLE PERSONS

John S. Williams, Comptroller of the Currency.

With his appointment as comptroller of the currency John Skelton Williams became one of the dominant figures in the banking affairs of the United States. His office carries with it membership of the organization committee which will choose the locations for the federal reserve banks under the new currency law, and he also becomes ex officio a member of the federal reserve board. Two of his colleagues on the organization committee are Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo and Secretary of Agriculture Houston. Mr. Williams has been assistant secretary of the treasury in charge of fiscal matters since last March.

The new comptroller is a native of Virginia, in his forty-ninth year, and was educated in private schools in Richmond and at William and Mary college. He is also a graduate of the law school of the University of Virginia. Shortly after completing his education Mr. Williams entered his father's banking firm and in a few years became one of the best known financiers of the south. Perhaps Mr. Williams is best known as former president of the Seaboard Air Line. He organized this road, which with its consolidated lines amounted to over 3,000 miles. He has also been president of the Bank of Richmond and of several minor railways.

Surgeon General of the Army.

The nomination of Colonel William Crawford Gorgas as surgeon general of the army not only fulfills expectation, but is in accordance with the practically universal wish of the public. Over thirty years' experience in the army medical corps has eminently qualified him for the post to which his conspicuous work at Panama commends him.

Despite his military title, Colonel Gorgas is a physician and has done his most important work as an investigator of theories based on medical practice. His military promotions have been for ability in combating disease. The battles he has waged have been against the deadly mosquitoes that bear the germs of yellow fever and malaria, and his victories at Havana and Panama have won for him the plaudits of the world.

For his work as health officer of Havana after the Spanish war he was promoted colonel by special act of congress in 1903 and a year later was sent to Panama as chief sanitary officer, becoming a member of the isthmian canal commission in 1907. At Panama he "cleaned up" and had yellow fever under control in sixteen months.

Colonel Gorgas is a native of Alabama, in his sixtieth year and was educated at the University of the South, Sewanee, Tenn., and Bellevue Medical College, New York city. He entered the army as a lieutenant of the medical corps in 1880. He was promoted to a captaincy five years later and during the Spanish war was advanced to the rank of major.

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interests of the City of Columbia and the people of Adair and adjacent counties.

It seems to us that if our Government, Federal or State, is to prescribe every movement of public-service corporations, it should become owner outright. We believe in reasonable restrictions of corporate interests, but can not see any good to the general public in a continual hounding of interests that are developing the entire country. Railroads, like other enterprises, in the main, are built and operated mainly as avenues of profit. Their building, and particularly their operation, brings development and prosperity to the people in general, and instead of cramping and discouraging investments in such enterprises, we would be glad to see a policy and spirit of encouragement to build more roads, and better equip the ones now in operation. In this matter we do not mean to yield unconditionally to railroads, but merely to make reasonable requirements, and to prevent monopolies that would deprive the people from the healthy effects of competition. Too many politicians are seeking to arouse the people against corporations merely to advance personal interests is our honest opinion, and we predict that the day is not far distant when the average intelligent citizen will see it. We do not believe in any policy that curtails development, unless such development is detrimental to the public good. Attempted force usually breeds resistance which is not good for either party while reasonable requirements, born of good motives, may be depended upon for good results of mutual interests. We believe in a live and let live policy, and take but little stock in the policy of destruction. In fact, we believe that more railroads are needed, more streams should be made navigable, and that both will be accomplished when the pendulum of public sentiment swings to its proper balance.

Criticism of the Legislature is general, and thus it has ever been. Justly so in many respects and unjustly in many. Measures are passed that should be defeated, and many defeated that should become laws, can not be disputed. To our mind too many bills of minor importance are introduced at the expense of the few of real worth, to give due and proper consideration in the short time allotted for law-making. To relieve this situation, to guarantee more cautious action, to give better time for development of worthy and needed legislation we believe that ninety days instead of sixty should be given the Legislature in which to do its work. Too often the most important measures are unduly rushed, too often their development delayed, due to the many little measures that will come to the front regardless of the length of the session. If ninety days were allowed, there need not be such rush jobs put up. To lengthen the term, a constitutional provision is necessary, and it seems that conditions would warrant submitting this to the people. The pay has been increased, and the time limit should be extended and used only when necessary. At the close of every session the rush precludes proper consideration, and it is impossible for members to study the merits or demerits of many measures they must vote for or against. For the good of the people in general, and for the protection of the honor and standing of our law makers, we suggest that the time be extended to ninety days, thus giving ample time to make such laws as will best serve the public good.

Greensburg.

The farmers institute which has been held here this week was well attended despite the condition of the roads and the preceding bad weather. A large number of representative farmers came from a distance and a healthy interest and enthusiasm was taken in the work. A number of splendid exhibits were shown although it was feared that roads would not permit even a few. About twenty of the boys of the Corn Club were on hand with their exhibits and the following received premiums: Ralph Tucker, first prize for ten best ears, $10; James Bridgewater, second prize, $5; Charles Bridgewater, third prize, $3. J. F. Cabell received the first prize for best peck of Irish potatoes; Carrie Workman received prize, $1, for best quilt pieced by girl fifteen and under; Florence Howell received $1 prize for best dozen biscuits baked by girl fifteen years old and under; Lois Vance received $1 prize for best loaf cake baked by girl fifteen years and under; Mrs. Lynwood Blakeman received the $3 prize for butter, and Mrs. W. G. Howell received $2 prize for second best butter; Mrs. B. C. Wilson, of Gresham, received $3 prize for best specimen pair turkeys, mammoth bronze, and Mrs. W. W. Neal received $2 prize; Mrs. Ida Paxton, of Rollinsburg received $3 prize for best specimen pair thoroughbred plymouth rock chickens; Miss Lou Blakeman received $2 for second best pair chickens, Buff Wyandottes; Mrs. W. W. Neal received $1 prize for ducks; Mrs. C. W. Peck received $2 prize for geese.

Mrs. Elizabeth Stone died this week at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Katie Mitchell, at the advanced age of 81. Mrs. Stone was born in Adair county, and was the daughter of Mr. Jack Smith. She married Mr. Samuel Stone, a son of Elder Barton W. Stone, one of the founders of the Christian Church. Mrs. Stone has been an invalid for a number of years, having suffered a fall fifteen years ago. Mrs. Mitchell was an only child. The funeral was held at the Presbyterian Church, the burial following at the Smith burial ground near here.

The N. Hobson Produce Company's poultry house at this place was broken into Saturday night last, and some valuable furs and an unknown amount of poultry and eggs were taken. A number of farmers have lost poultry within the past two weeks and no clew has been found to any of the robberies, except at Bluff Boom, where a number of hen's were marketed. One of the intruders were noted and a warrant will be served soon.

Rev. W. H. C. Sandidge, who has been confined to his house since the early holidays, is able to be out again, but has not yet been able to fill the pulpits which he regularly fills. Mr. Sandidge is one of the best known ministers in the counties adjoining Green, and he has hosts of interested friends, who are glad to learn that he is improving.

The tobacco market at this place is still lively, although recent severe weather and bad roads have lessened the receipts this week. Prices have held firm, and are better this week than at any previous time. The market will close March the 6th.

The domestic science demonstrations given by Mrs. Mary F. Ginn, one of the instructors of the institute, were largely attended by the ladies. A great interest was shown in this phase of farm life, and Mrs. Ginn emphasized strongly the importance of mastering the science of cooking. She confirmed the statement of eminent physicians of America that poorly cooked foods are the chief cause of a large per cent., of ill health. She strongly advocated the use of a great amount of such foods as greens, cabbage, kale, spinach etc., and declared that if one needed a tonic in the spring for general debility, no better remedy could be used than the simple one of eating as much of these vegetables as one could possibly eat for two weeks or more.

From Missouri.

Bogard, Mo., 2, 14, 1914.

Editor News:-

This is to celebrate the valentine season by sending the compliments of the season to every man, woman and child in the old Kentucky home, through the medium of The News.

Time and again I have written as to fertility of the soil in Carroll county, Missouri, and the products of this generous region.

Mention has also been made of the citizenship, and the reason to be assigned is the fact that it is largely made up of Kentuckians.

Some of them forget their allegiance to their native State; but while I left there at the age of twenty-four, and am now fifty-six; I cherish for her the sentiments expressed by the sweet singer of captive Israel when asked to sing the songs of Zion by the waters of Babylon; or the devotion of Ruth to her mother-in-law.

I have lived in South and West, and like both; but still regard Kentucky as God's country.

Among other celebrities of Missouri, is the hare or old field rabbit. Of course this animal is indiginitous to Kentucky, North Carolina, and the South and West generally. But here their motto is, increase and multiply. I saw seven hundred dead ones at one time at the store of A. B. Skinner, of Mandeville, and he assured me that this was not a good day for rabbits. Tell Jim Cager Yates that Bram and family read and enjoyed his letter; and that my 8 months closes April 17, 1914, so he can get that "auto bay mule" ready.

We have had it eight degrees below zero, and have a big snow in places.

Ono.

We are having quite a warm winter so far. Farmers are doing a good part of their plowing.

Miss Maude Popplewell passed through Ono to-day en route to her uncles, C. R. Dunbar.

One Mr. Sammy Bummett passed from the walks of men into eternity recently, but he left the testimony that he did not fear to die, as his death would be a gain of happiness in the glorious beyond.

The Ono high school closed the 4th day of Feb., 1914. The scholars regretted very much. They appreciated Mr. Ben Edmonds as an instructor very much.

Mr. W. L. Wilson has declined the idea of going West and has become reconciled with Russell, bought him a farm and concluded to stay with us.

We are having a disease in this section something like chicken-pox. Some say that it is more than likely to be small-pox. Some new cases seems to be very severe.

We fear that winter will come in the spring.

A good tide would afford an opportunity for the raftmen to get their logs to market.

Hogs seems to be on the slow sale this time. Fat hogs are all O. K. Corn sells at $4 to $5 per barrel.

Mr. Mark Wilson is improving slowly. His hair and beard not being trimmed lately gives him a frightful appearance, but that is easily remedied.

Alfonso Dunbar, while riding on a wagon, en route from a saw mill, fell off, the wagon running over his arms and injuring him very much.

Marty Wilson, while snaking logs over a chute, came very near getting killed by a saw log rolling over him. He was only slightly injured.

The dogs are playing havoc with sheep in this section.

Vianner Dockery died recently.

I keep on hands a full stock of coffins, caskets, and robes. I also keep Metallic Caskets, and Steel Boxes and two hearses. Prompt service night or day. Residence Phone 29, office Phone 98.

How to Detect the Alum Baking Powder

"Which are the alum baking powders; how can I avoid them unless they are named?" asks a housekeeper.

Here is one way: take the can of a low-priced powder in your hand and read the ingredient clause upon the back label. The law requires that if the powder contains alum that fact must be there stated. If you find one of the ingredients named alum, or sulphate of aluminum, you have found an alum baking powder.

There is another and a better way. You don't have to know the names of the alum powders. Use Royal Baking Powder only; that assures you a cream of tartar powder, and the purest and most healthful baking powder beyond question.

The former will continue to sell goods in Columbia and the latter will continue his very profitable calling, sinking wells.

Mr. A. B. Gowdy, of Campbellsville, is visiting relatives in Columbia.

Mr. W. C. Queen, Mt. Washington, was here a few days ago.

Doorbell That Rings When Knob Is Turned.

In a new invention which has been recently patented the act of turning the knob will ring a bell which is located on the back of the door. This dispenses with the uncertainty of the electric bell, which must be given more or less attention from time to time to maintain it in operating order. The external appearance of the knob is exactly the same as any other, but inside there is a curved segment secured to the shank of the knob. As this is moved back and forth in the movement of the knob a lever which operates the bell is agitated and causes the bell to ring.

Mincemeat.

Boil three pounds of lean boneless meat, and when cold put through food chopper. Then add four quarts chopped apples, one quart of ground suet, two pints of fruit juice, cherry or strawberry are the best; one pound of currants, one and one-half pounds of seeded raisins cut in halves. The juice of four lemons, peelings of three oranges, which have been through food chopper; one-fourth of a citron cut fine, one tablespoonful of cinnamon, one-half tablespoonful of allspice, one-half tablespoonful of cloves, one and one-half pints of weak vinegar, and then add enough brown sugar to suit the taste.

Maple Waffles.

Vermont maple waffles are delicious when served nicely buttered and piping hot. To make them, soften one cupful of finely shaved maple sugar in three cupfuls of milk. Sift one quart of flour with three teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one saltspoonful of salt, then rub in one tablespoonful of softened butter. Beat the yolks of four eggs until light, then add the milk and sugar and stir gradually into the flour; beat thoroughly, fold in the whites of eggs beaten stiff and dry and beat again. Bake in well greased and heated waffle irons.—Rural New Yorker.

Cheese Biscuit.

An excellent cheese biscuit is made by sifting together two cupfuls of flour, four teaspoonfuls of baking powder and one and one-half teaspoonfuls of salt, then with a fork or the fingers work into it one-quarter of a pound of cheese and add gradually about a cupful of water. It is impossible to give the exact amount of water, as flour differs in its capacity for taking up moisture. Toss the dough on a floured board, roll out and cut with a biscuit cutter. When in the pan sprinkle over the top a bit of grated cheese.

Virginia Corn Bread.

Three cupfuls of white meal, one cupful of flour, one tablespoonful of sugar, one teaspoonful of salt, two heaping teaspoonfuls of baking powder, one tablespoonful of lard, three cups of milk and three eggs. Sift together the flour, cornmeal, sugar, salt and baking powder. Rub in the lard cold, add three well beaten eggs and then the milk. Mix into a moderately stiff batter, pour into well greased shallow baking pans and bake from thirty to forty minutes.

Old Fashioned Souse.

Take pigs' feet and head, thoroughly clean and place in salt water to soak for twenty-four hours. Then boil until the bones slip easily from the meat. Take up and when cool enough to handle, carefully remove all bones. Mince or grind through a meat chopper, season with salt, pepper and sage to suit the taste and press in a mold. This is very nice sliced and placed in vinegar, or for breakfast sliced and dipped in batter and fried.

Golden Betty.

To make brown betty with cheese arrange in a deep earthenware dish alternate layers of bread crumbs and thinly sliced apples. Season with cinnamon, a little clove and brown sugar. Scatter some finely shaved mild full cream cheese over each layer of apples and when the dish is full scatter bread crumbs over the top and bake thirty-five to forty minutes, placing the dish in a pan of water so that the pudding will not burn.

Popcorn Balls.

Pop corn in popper, put in pan. Take one cupful molasses, butter size of walnut and one teaspoonful vinegar. Cook all together until it will harden when dropped in cold water, then pour over corn and make in balls.

A Gambler Prince

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

This is a true story. "Francois Blanc," said the judge, "what have you to say why sentence should not be passed upon you?"

"Nothing." "I regret that the inadequacy of the law compels me to let you off with a nominal punishment. You corrupted the young men in the telegraph office to publish false news from the Stock Exchange in Paris to enable you to make money by buying or selling shares, an offense which should give you not less than ten years in prison. I sentence you to serve seven months in jail, being the longest term I can give you for your crime."

Francois Blanc bowed his head and was marched away. When his term of service had passed he came out of jail with $20,000 to his credit in bank. Right under the nose of the judge who had convicted him he established a casino in Homburg, which was really a gambling house. He made money, but a prejudice against gambling was growing in Germany, and he feared the time would come when laws would be passed that would ruin his business.

M. Blanc looked up rather than down. He aspired to run his gambling business in a country where he could so influence the laws that none would be made to interfere with his method of enriching himself. So he looked about him. In Europe there are a number of small kingdoms, principalities, dukedoms, that have been independent so long that none of the great powers have the hardihood to absorb them. Blanc found a little principality containing a few square miles only that seemed ripe for what he intended. What the powers dare not absorb by the bayonet he resolved to absorb by undermining with gold.

The ruler of this principality had descended from one of the oldest royal families in Europe, but he had nothing but his pedigree. He held a court. It is true, but his courtiers were those who served without salaries and were able occasionally to lend the sovereign money. In order to recoup he sold a concession in his principality to two men, who bought it with the intention of opening a gambling house on the territory conceded. They built a casino and began operations, but the prince wanted all their profits, and they became discouraged.

Francois Blanc, learning of this concession and the condition of its owners, bought it from them and, closing out his casino at Homburg, built a costly one on the new site, laid out splendid gardens—in short, expended several millions with a view to making his place attractive. Fortunately for him the time was ripe for such an investment. For many years Baden Baden, in Germany, had been the fashionable gambling center of Europe, where every one, from royalty to commoner, gave way to the passion of gaming. Baden Baden was now no longer such a resort, and Blanc aimed to make his concession what Baden Baden had been.

In this he succeeded. The gambling mania of Europe was all made to pour gold into Francois Blanc's pocket. Kings and queens, princes and princesses, dukes and duchesses, came and made it fashionable, to be followed by every one who had a franc to spend and a franc to risk. The sovereign had all the money he wanted to spend, and his court, if not numerous, were at least well dressed and were not called upon to lend the prince money. But while he held the empty title of ruler of the principality Francois Blanc was the real governor.

The prince died and left his inheritance to his son. The new sovereign proved himself really nothing more than a silent junior partner in a gambling establishment, and there was nothing for him to do but remain as he was, so he renewed the concession for a term of fifty years for $5,000,000, a sum that Francois Blanc could well afford to pay since he made it in a single year. He could afford to do more than this. He furnished all the money necessary to run the government, including official salaries.

One storm arose on the gambler sovereign's path, but he weathered it. The prince's neighbors, not relishing a gambling principality so near them, endeavored to induce one of the powers on which it bordered to take steps to prohibit it. In addition, the prince's subjects became dissatisfied at paying taxes to a prince who had such an enormous revenue. At Blanc's request the sovereign abolished all taxes, and Blanc paid them.

This was the last bite in the loaf the gambler devoured. The prince, the principality and lastly the subjects passed into his capacious maw, for when a citizen sells his citizenship the buyer becomes its owner. Francois Blanc accumulated a fortune equal to some of the largest in America, and, if he was only a prince in a financial way, he married his daughters to princes.

The principality that forms the subject of this narrative lies on the north shore of the Mediterranean and is called Monaco. It is divided into three parts, one of which is Monte Carlo. It is on this portion that all Europe, persons from all parts of the world, assemble to "buck the tiger."

If the present Prince of Monaco derives an income from a concession to a gambler he is personally far above the gambling business. He is a scientist and has made some valuable contributions to scientific lore.

Secret of Happiness.

Truman A. De Weese, author of "The Bend in the Road," having seen nature with the eyes of a country boy and a city man, has come to the following conclusions:

I know of nothing so clean as the soil of a good garden.

How can a man live with a woman who does not love the country?

Whether it is apples or chickens or a garden, you must do some of the work yourself.

There is only one way to keep young and that is to pursue an outdoor habit with boyish enthusiasm.

Only the man who makes things grow and who gets close to the soil has solved the real secret of happiness.

The country is free, open and frank. There are a lot of fine people in it, but we cannot escape the fact that they live under cramped, unnatural conditions.

Bowels are Basis of Child Health

The careful mother, who watches closely the physical peculiarities of her children, will soon discover that the most important thing in connection with a child's constant good health is to keep the bowels regularly open. Sluggish bowels will be followed by loss of appetite, restlessness during sleep, irritability and a dozen and one similar evidences of physical disorder.

At the first sign of such disorder give the child a teaspoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin at night on retiring and repeat the dose the following night if necessary—more than that will scarcely be needed. You will find that the child will recover its accustomed good spirits at once and will eat and sleep normally. This remedy is a vast improvement over salts, cathartics, laxative waters and similar things, which are altogether too powerful for a child. The homes of Mrs. Carrie McDonald, 1036 Trigg Ave., Memphis, Tenn., and Mrs. Sallie E. Griffith, Veechdale, Ky., are always supplied with Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, and with them, as with thousands of others, there is no substitute for this grand laxative. It is really more than a laxative, for it contains superior tonic properties which help to tone and strengthen the stomach, liver and bowels so that after a brief use of it all laxatives can be dispensed with and nature will do its own work.

Anyone wishing to make a trial of this remedy before buying it in the regular way of a druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a large bottle (family size) can have a sample bottle sent to the home free of charge by simply addressing Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 405 Washington St., Monticello, Ill. Your name and address on a postal card will do.

Mt. Pleasant.

Since my last communication to you, we have passed through a very severe spell of weather.

Miss Zella East made a business trip to Columbia last week.

Misses Amanda, Bettie Lee and Sallie Ed Butler spent the night of the 7th with the family of William Butler, and notwithstanding the fact the weather was hovering around zero this did not keep Uncle Bill at the age of 78 from helping the "kids" put things over. If any of the readers want to spend the night of their life, they should visit this family.

G. M. Cundiff and family, and Ed Hood and wife spent last Sunday with S. C. Hood and family.

Mrs. Golan Butler and daughter, Lucille, spent the week end in Columbia.

Mrs. Sallie F. Smith, J. L. Hutcherson and family and James Hood and wife visited the latter's parents last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hood called on Mrs. Sallie Butler a few evenings ago.

Mrs. Ed Butler and daughters, Bettie and Robbie, are spending the week with Mrs. Butler's mother, Mrs. Bettie Coakley, near Campbellville.

John W. Butler, who has been employed by the Greensburg Loose Leaf House, for some months, now has another position offered him in that city and will likely accept it at the close of the tobacco season.

Can you please tell us what has become of our R.R.?

I am sorry to tell you of the death of Mr. Creed Harmon. Only three months ago his wife died and now he is called to be with her. We extend to the bereaved children our heartfelt sympathy and pray that the giver of every good and perfect gift will deal gently with them and at last they may all meet mother and father in the better world, where no sorrow ever comes.

Church History.

By the request of the session of the Presbyterian Church of Ebenezer, Green county, Ky., I will attempt to sketch her history, which runs back to 1798 or '99, when visited by Rev. David Rice, a church of 15 members with Alexandra Harris, Samuel Workman and John Moore, Elders, was organized, and statedly supplied at different times by Rev. David Rice, Jeremiah Abel, and Samuel Robertson. As to members received and dismissed, no record was kept until 1812, when her membership had increased to 26, and we find her collections for missions liberal. About 1825 the church was visited by Rev. Samuel Wilson and John Howe. A few members were added from the families of Cabell, Mitchell, Harris and Lyle. In 1828 the longest pastorate in her history began, that of Rev. John Howe, which continued until 1846, when they had completed and dedicated the second church, a comfortable building 30 x 40, located six miles from Greensburg on the Columbia road in a beautiful beech forest. The pike now crosses at this point. Her board of Elders at this time consisted of Thos. Mitchell, Dr. T. Q. Walker, Samuel J. Cabell and J. A. Mitchell Sr. The building committee was composed of Dr. Walker, Jas. G. Craddock, Frederick Cabell and Peter Anderson.

Fond memories seemed to cluster long around this pastorate which was terminated by his removal to Missouri. With this heavy drain constantly upon her, her roll carries 75 or more names, some of which are forgotten, and some have passed on to places of distinction, and all have finished their race.

Next the rather stormy pastorate of Rev. W. H. Woods continued until 1850, followed by Rev. John Hancock and W. H. Howell. Dr. J. L. McKee supplied the church, four years, his first pastorate until 1859, when we find his leaving caused universal regret. He might well be called a model preacher and pastor, and his children's meetings were the delight of all as his large congregation testified.

So they planned to build a new house 40 x 60 near the old one. The war coming on, it was not completed and dedicated until 1866. He returned to dedicate it; the ruling Elders at this time, were Charlie Patterson, Cary A. Griffin, Samuel Wilson, Sam W. Moore, Joshua Heizer and J. A. Mitchell Sr. The latter was clerk of session 41 years. Wm. Heizer and Abner Mitchell, Deacon; 75 or 80 names on the roll. They were a generation of true men that kept their altars burning and the lines well marked between right and wrong. In 1962 the church was supplied by Rev. Wm. C. Johnson until he took a chaplaincy in the army, died in December at Munfordsville, about 22 years of age; A lovely man, mourned for by all who knew him. He was born on the mission field of Asia Minor. His life was aglow with the spirit of the Master—a spirit of service.

Supplied next year by Rev. H. C. Reid, another faithful ambassador, who was called to his reward while at his post of duty.

Rev. W. D. Symington next filled the pulpit: he was gifted as a leader of song and had the young people well drilled in music. The church at this time was divided, a majority stayed with the old church and employed Dr. G. J. Reed, uniting with Columbia in his support; the Southern branch uniting with Bethel in the support of Rev. W. D. Symington, Duncan and Crenshaw. For 12 years Dr. Reed labored faithfully among us (1877), followed Rev. T. M. Baldwin, W. E. B. Harris, T. D. Neald and others.

Early in the 90s the two branches were re-united under Rev. James M. Walton, five years; Frank Walton, five years; and Rev. A. B. Court, three years.

The present pastor, Rev. W. H. C. Sandidge of the C. P. church, has happily united Presbyterianism in this section of the county.

I cannot close this sketch without mentioning the many precious revival sessions in which the following labored with us: Drs. J. L. Lapsley, T. H. Clelland, J. L. McKee, John Hays, H. H. Allen, John Ragan, A. A. Hazel and others, and our Synodical Missionary, S. E. Wishart, D. McDonald and Jas. T. Price have been with us and brought a blessing.

As you peruse these lines gentle reader, may you get a vision of the power and influence of the church as she sends out her men and money to evangelize the world, and get busy. Of her membership 50 years ago, four remain, and as many elsewhere. Her doors of opportunity were never wider open. The present Elders are J. J. Craddock, T. C. Moore, John Cabell and L. E. McGinnis. Deacons B. C. Wilson and H. J. Paxton.

A new country road is being opened between this place and Montpelier, along the line of the old neighborhood road leading from a point near Mt. Zion church to a point on Jamestown road, near Geo. Helm's shop. This bids fair to be a first-class highway, quite in contrast to the old one, which was only ever traversed by a few of the bravest of persons, owing to the danger from falling over precipices or being crushed between the boulders.

Quite a sum of money has been raised by that element of our citizenship who wish to further the cause of God and morality, and Mt. Zion church has 21 loads of gravel at its front encircled by a stone enclosure. The church will be painted outside and inside, blinds for the windows, and other extensive repairs.

The greatest commercial triumph ever scored in favor of this community and all the Upper Cumberland section of Kentucky, was made a few days ago when the United States Government decided permanently and finally to lock and dam the Upper Cumberland. Dams will be built as we understand, at Blackfish shoals, and at a point several miles below Creelsboro, and will cost thousands of dollars. This will mean the employment of hundreds of laborers, call for large quantities of farm products, and perhaps make pocket change more readily accessible in these ends of the earth. This will cause a great commercial awakening, enhance farm values, and ultimately, as has been said for years, force some of the railroads to the Northward to extend a good road into this section to resecure the the trade of which all reason teaches us they will be deprived.

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets

are, we honestly believe, the best remedy made for Indigestion, Dyspepsia and all other Stomach Ills

We Know They're Good

Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets, in addition to other ingredients, contain Pepsin and Bismuth, two great digestive aids used by the entire medical profession. They soothe the inflamed stomach, check the heartburn and distress, stimulate a healthy secretion of the gastric juice, aid in rapid and comfortable digestion of the food and help to quickly convert it into rich red blood, and thereby into flesh, bone and muscle. They relieve stomach distress promptly, and, used regularly for a short time, tend to restore the stomach to a comfortable, easy-acting, healthy state. They aid greatly to promote regular bowel action.

Delays Are Dangerous

Don't neglect indigestion, for it frequently leads to all sorts of ills and complications. The pain and discomfort is not the most unfortunate part. The fact that when the stomach is not acting right, the material needed to repair the wastes that are constantly taking place in the body is not being given to the blood either in the proper condition or fast enough is far more serious. Nothing will cause more trouble than an unhealthy stomach. The blues, debility, lack of strength and energy, constipation, biliousness, headaches and scores of other serious ailments result from the failure of the stomach to properly do its work.

You Risk No Money

Our willingness to have you use Rexall Dyspepsia Tablets entirely at our risk proves our faith in them. We always sell them this way, and it is because we know that they have greatly benefited scores of sufferers to whom we have sold them. There's no red tape about our guarantee. It means just what it says. We'll ask you no questions. You needn't sign anything. Your word is enough for us. We know that when they help you you will consider it money well spent even if they had cost you ten times as much. If they don't help you, the money you paid for them is yours, and we want you to have it.
